IP3 Capacity Building Solutions

The Institute for Public-Private Partnerships (IP3) is an international capacity building firm that focuses on advancing public-private partnership programs and opportunities, infrastructure regulation operations and management initiatives, and competitive utility management reform in the environmental (water/sanitation and solid waste), energy, transportation, technology, municipal service, health, and education sectors. IP3 provides training and consulting services on the requisite legal, regulatory, financial, managerial, technical, and institutional requirements for successful program/project design, implementation, and monitoring.

Our clients include national/state/local government agencies, regulatory bodies, utilities, donor organizations, non-governmental organizations, and private businesses. Since 1994, we have trained over 35,000 professionals from 175 countries worldwide.

Clients interested in developing comprehensive skills in our training areas can simply select from our menu of course offerings, or work with IP3 to design and deliver a customized training program on any technical, policy, or management topic in DC or abroad. IP3 experts work with each client to recommend the most effective training program and/or set of programs to meet each institution's needs.

IP3 Accreditation

IP3's classroom and online training is accredited by the International Association for Continuing Education and Training (IACET) for issuing Continuing Education Units (CEUs).
